New dedicated bus stop improves access to the vaccination centre at Centre for Life

Working in partnership with the region's other transport operators as part of the NEbus operators' association and Nexus, Go North East has improved access to the vaccination centre at Centre for Life in Newcastle.

A dedicated bus stop is now in place directly outside Centre for Life, and is served by many of Go North East's frequent services from across the region, with the company also serving key hospital hubs and vaccination clinics.

Regular cleaning takes place on board the company's buses throughout the day with common touchpoints wiped down, and a deep clean each night that includes an anti-viral treatment, allowing customers to travel in confidence knowing that Go North East services are clean, safe and comfy.

Nexus concessionary travel pass holders can also travel for free to any vaccination location in Tyne and Wear before 9.30am if they show their appointment letter along with their pass. The usual arrangements apply in other areas.

Martijn Gilbert, managing director at Go North East and chair of NEbus, said: "This has been an excellent effort by the region's bus operators working in partnership along with Nexus.

"This new special vaccination bus stop at Centre for Life will allow people to get to their vaccination appointment a whole lot easier, with reduced walking time from other nearby bus stops.

"Those with appointments at hospital hubs or local vaccination clinics can also travel in confidence knowing that it's easy to get around the region on public transport, which is clean, safe and comfy."
